A dramatic photograph of a massive, towering glacier wall made of jagged, blue-tinged ice. At the base of the glacier, a large, powerful splash of white water is erupting, creating a misty spray that partially obscures the lower part of the ice wall. The sky is a pale, overcast blue, and the water in the foreground is dark with scattered chunks of ice.

The best kind of audio visual is one which delegates don't even notice. For this reason we have an in-house technical division to ensure we can provide our clients with professionally delivered, bespoke solutions to events across the globe.

Our specialist team add value to any event by giving key messages real impact, ensuring attendees retain vital information. Our technical team can provide you with exciting and innovative audio visual solutions which will be on budget, on schedule and will make your event stand out from the competition.

We support three types of meetings for our clients:

Face to Face

A traditional environment where participants have the opportunity to communicate and interact the tried and tested way.

Virtual

Delegates attend remotely either in real time or at a time to suit them. This saves both time and money to say nothing of reducing the impact on the environment.

Hybrid

A combination of both face to face and virtual meetings with some participants attending in person and some taking part remotely.

Our virtual and hybrid solutions enable our clients to not only choose who attends but how, when and where they do so. Whether participants experience an event via a DVD-ROM, a tailor made web portal, a bespoke website or a live web cast, Browncroft Audio Visual Solutions brings together tried and tested technology to offer you the best technical event solution for your needs.

We have a network of strategic partners across the world which allows us to be a one stop shop for all your event services. We can supply, manage and integrate multi-lingual translation services, interactive audience response systems and web-based training applications into your meeting.
